

Source: Andrew Stott

While Australian off road racers were tackling the rough and tumble of Keera Station at the second round of the ARB Australian Off Road Championship in April, notable by their absence was regular campaigners Andy and Danny Brown. The reason; the Norra Mexican 1000 – ticking another item off the bucket list.

The NORRA Mexican 1000 is a world class adventure event which is run over five days and covers a massive 1300 miles through the wilds of Mexico's Baja Peninsula. The 2018 Yokohama NORRA Mexican 1000 started in Ensenada and finished five gruelling days later in San Jose del Cabo over the week of 20th to 27th April.

The organisers statement... “we have returned off road motorsport to its roots - camaraderie, hot rodding and fun! The Mexican 1000 Rally is a fully supported on road/off road rally open to vintage and modern vehicles. It will be excitement-filled, with high-performance driving, incredible scenery and world-class adventure.”

Andy and Danny Brown at the Noora Mexican adventure race event, standing with their dune buggy.

Andy & Danny Brown's Noora Mexican adventure
Saturday, 02 June 2018 11:30

Andy & Danny Brown's Noora Mexican adventure
Saturday, 02 June 2018 11:30

