

Ayers Racing will return to the track this weekend for a fourth time in 2017 with team driver Luke Ayers to pilot the Tatum powered Chev alongside a surprise guest navigator at the 40th anniversary of Albins ARB Goondiwindi 400.

After a couple of mixed results to begin their season were erased by the teams spirited seventh outright at this year's Tatts Finke Desert Race, which included a guest driver for the weekend Harley Letner. Luke and his team have shifted their attention to the upcoming 400kms on the off road racing calendar - a brutally challenging Goondiwindi.

Famously renowned for its melon holes, Ayers will meet green for a fifth time at Goondiwindi and this time around Malapunya Run is going to be a lot smoother in the Tatum than previous attempts in an Extreme 4WD Hilux.

Ayers and Chapman Join Forces at Goondiwindi

Thursday, 17 August 2017 18:24

